

Department of "Space technics and technology"

Specialty - "Space technics and technologies"

Group - Ktit-11

Report of the curatorial hour on "Religious extremism and terrorism"

On 18.09.2020, at 14.00 Nur-Sultan time, the ktit-11 group of the Department of Space engineering and technology held an online curatorial hour on the topic "Religious extremism and terrorism", which was attended by 22 students from 26.

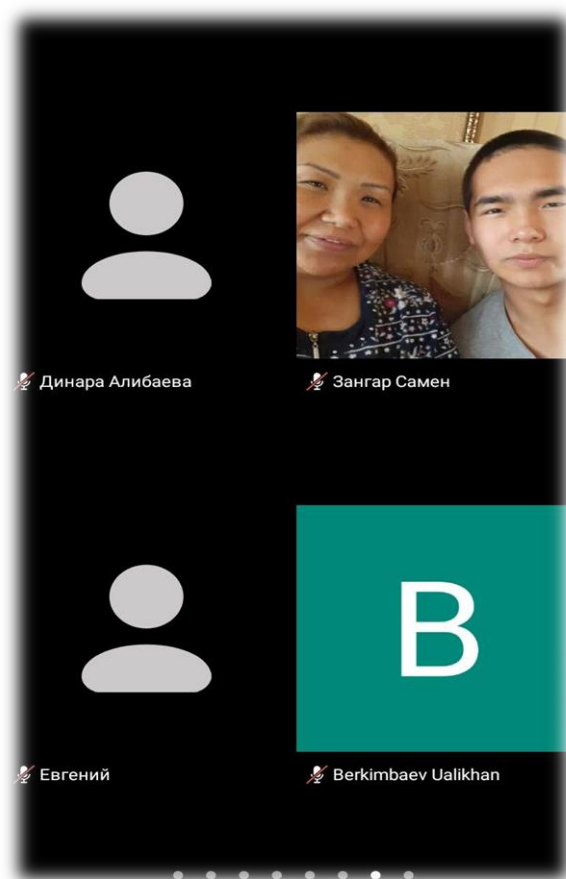

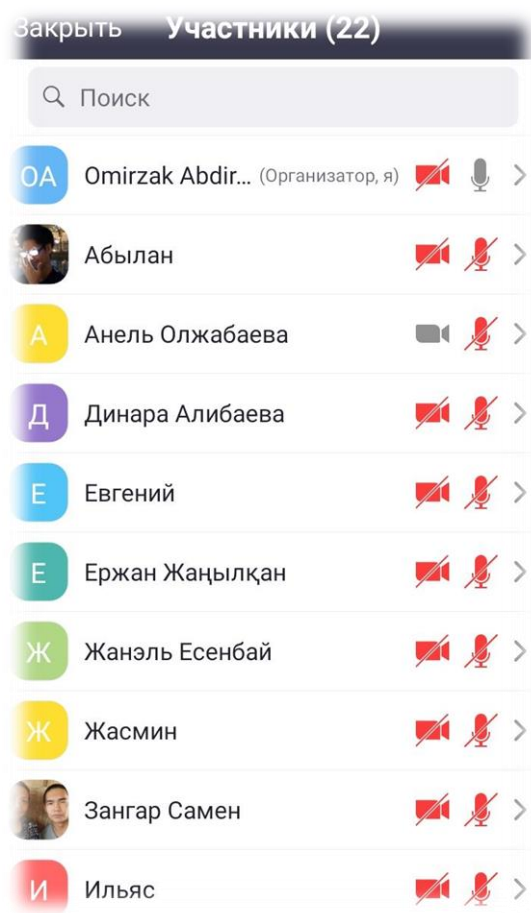

Религиозный экстремизм - это отрицание системы традиционных для общества ценностей, норм морали и права, а также агрессивная пропаганда "идей", действующая под видом влечения к религии.

The purpose of the curatorial hour was to discuss problems related to the destructive activities and extremism of subjects of religious relations and to develop acceptable solutions to these problems on this basis. The curator of the group, Abdirashev Omirzak Koptileuuly, held a conversation with the students, during which they discussed the students' understanding of extremism, terrorism, its types, causes and consequences, as well as the importance and relevance of this problem.

It is impossible to understand religious extremism if you do not understand its ethical side and motivation for actions. In order to make an objective judgment about religious extremism, it is necessary to have a clear understanding of its essence. Therefore, it was necessary to provide students with a clear definition and understanding of "religious extremism" in the following parameters:

- 1) meaning of the term;
- 2) signs;
- 3) causes of occurrence;
- 4) ideology;
- 5) the nature of the consequences;
- 6) the methods of prevention.

During the curatorial hour, all these points were discussed with specific examples and facts. As a result of the discussion, the students made the right conclusions and sufficiently changed their religious outlook.